

1890

Morning Prayers - 1322
22.10.90

MP 914 p1

I've mentioned a couple of times "The Way of a Pilgrim" - a short guide from it, is a few moments. Perhaps better known, though, at least as a name, might be the author of another quotation I want to share with you this morning, namely Feodor Dostoevsky. Throughout his great big novels there are passages of deep spirituality, enough for many hours of meditating and fruitful prayer. Father Zossima is one of the figures in Dostoevsky's "The Brothers Karamazov". It's from the discourse of Fr Zossima that I've chosen the piece we'll hear after our music today, about God's creation - the same general theme as these few lines, now, from "The Way of a Pilgrim".

QQ. "Seasons" p8

In music now. "Everyone

Abbe Father
2'

moved by the Spirit"

MUSIC

From the Discourse of Fr Zossima, in Feodor Dostoevsky's "The Brothers Karamazov"

QQ "Seasons" p9/184