

Hosanna
(Amen you go) These past couple of weeks, I've read for you from some of the psalms, and about the psalms, as prayers and as poetry. Today, before we pray together in the words of another psalm, I'd like to return (to set a mood) to a source I've quoted for you before — a poet, writing on life and prayer, a kind of contemporary psalmist, Ernesto Cardenal. Listen, reflectively and prayerfully to this piece about Faith & Knowing:

@@ 'Love' (Cardenal) p 127 ff.

Moniuszko
"Vox humilitatis"

And in music now, a Polish psalm-setting by Stanislaw Moniuszko MUSIC PRAYERS

[2'] Our thoughts may sweep (Small Ps p 238)
Ps 138